Of Applause From the Delegates.

Milwaukee, July 11.—Wisconsin democracy opened its doors to the progressives of the state today when Hubert O. Wolfe, temporary chairman of the state convention, in a keynote speech extolled the La Follette followers an invitation to join them.
Loud cheering followed his direct appeal to the progressive republicans. "We say to you it is time to come to us," he said. "The republican party, of which you at one time were so proud, is merely an old wreck. Its hour has struck. Its glories sit in imagination only. Modern Americanism finds no expression in its principles nor its deeds. We want you to forget old labels and past habits."
Both Taft and Roosevelt were made the subjects of attack. Reference to Roosevelt as the famous "lamb slaughter" provoked applause.
A progressive platform favoring revision downward of the tariff was urged by Mr. Wolfe. Hats, newspapers and flags were thrown into the air at the mention of Governor Wilson's name. Bryan's name was also cheered loudly.
After the addresses the convention began the selection of the various committees and planned at the close of this business to take a recess.
Herbert O. Wolfe, temporary chairman of the Democratic State Convention, in his address today invited Senator Robert M. La Follette and Progressive Republicans of Wisconsin to join the Democracy of that state. He declared that they "have three times been spurned in national party conventions and their principles held up to contempt and ridicule." The speaker said that the Wisconsin Democrats should pattern their course in accordance with the program resulting from the Baltimore convention, and that the chief issue in the coming campaign must be the tariff. He complimented W. J. Bryan for his services to the party and paid a tribute to Woodrow Wilson. Mr. Wolfe spoke in the following words:
"Our party has emerged from its deliberations at Baltimore with the banner of progressivism proudly floating on high. It vindicated itself in the eyes of all. Purged of every reactionary taint, Democracy today calls to the progressives of the nation, regardless of past party affiliation, to join its ranks and help carry forward the movement to restore our government to the common people in accordance with the ideals of its founders.
"The issues confronting the electorate of the nation are crystal clear. It is a question of progressivism versus conservatism. It is a contest of the theory that new conditions require new remedies, with the view-point that a modern and complex industrial system can be regulated by Stone Age methods. The conservative or 'stand pat' program recognizes the fact that there has been a tremendous evolution in business and its methods, but fails to perceive the necessity of keeping our governmental activities abreast of our industrial changes.
"A reactionary and the person who this year voted the Republican ticket are indistinguishable beings. The Republican party in its convention at Chicago was controlled by the chosen attorneys, agents and representatives of all that is black in our body politics, the monopolies, trusts and the predatory interests. The nominee of that convention owes his nomination to interests who no longer stand in good grace with the thinking voters of our land. Having been nominated by the 'machine,' Mr. Taft's election would mean that thereafter, he would be dominated by it.
"The chief issue of the coming campaign must of necessity be the tariff. It is the heart of every economic question with which we have to deal. We believe that the high protective tariff is the root of many of our present day governmental evils; that it has encouraged and fostered huge trusts and industrial combinations and that it is largely and directly responsible for the terrific increase in the cost of living.
"The millennium itself seems closer at hand than the time when actual tariff reform may be expected at the hands of those who now control the destiny of the Republican party.
"On the tariff question the Democratic party invites support. It proposes to restore economic justice as the keystone of our industrial system.
"Special privileges have caused the growth of monopolies. Under the continuous Republican administration since 1896 a group of several dozen men have successfully organized many branches of business of this country so that they control the output thereof. It is a matter which should awaken grave alarm when industrial giants like the Steel trust, Standard Oil and above all, the Money Trust, practically hold the fate of the country in the hollow of their hands. The door of opportunity is being rapidly closed to the business men of small means. The true of these industrial combinations. During the sixteen years the republican party has been in power, it has done practically nothing to check this unwhol-

CONFIDENCE THAT MANY OF THE SENATOR'S FRIENDS WOULD FOLLOW IT WITHOUT OFFERS OF POLITICAL SPOILS.

The income tax law has been kicked around pretty freely by the democrats. All classes are against it mainly because it is too inquisitive the democrats say. Few object to the amount of the tax however.
Judge J. C. Karel and A. G. Schmidt both of Milwaukee, were leading in the race for the gubernatorial nomination. Some claim Karel would carry the democratic vote on the early ballot. Karel was formerly a state representative. Schmidt was a candidate for governor on the democratic ticket two years ago and was defeated. Few candidates for the other offices appeared early.
The convention opened at 11. Hubert O. Wolfe, of Milwaukee was chosen to act as temporary chairman. Martin Cammon of Merrill and William Henry of Jefferson, announced their intention to run for state treasurer.
Daniel H. Grady of Portage and C. Hummerley of Milwaukee, were mentioned for attorney general.
The convention recessed shortly after 1 o'clock until 7:30 tonight when the committees will report.

REPUBLICAN PARTY IN IOWA SPLITS

Plans for 'Separate Campaigns for Roosevelt and Taft Talked of Following Convention Action.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Des Moines, Ia., July 11.—Several political conferences were held early today, at which the action of the republican state convention yesterday, which resulted in a victory for Theodore Roosevelt, were discussed, and plans laid by both progressive and stand-patters for the campaigns in Iowa in behalf of President Taft and Colonel Roosevelt. At a progressive meeting it was decided to hold a state convention July 24 and name delegates from Iowa to the Roosevelt convention in Chicago, August 5. The Taft campaign in Iowa, it was decided at the meeting of stand-patters, will be carried on in co-operation with the state and national committee.

DRYS FIGHT OVER THE CHAIRMANSHIP

Chairmanship of National Committee
Bone of Contention Among Prohibition Factions.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Atlantic City, N. J., July 11.—Factions of the prohibition party in convention here determined upon a final fight over the chairmanship of the national committee today and planned to settle their differences on the floor of the convention instead of trusting it to the new national committee.
Insurgent leaders will present the name of W. G. Calderwood of Minneapolis to succeed Charles H. Jones, candidate of the regulars. Another candidate, S. F. W. Lough of Indiana, will be proposed as a success in the date.
The platform contains the local denunciation of the liquor traffic and declares that to destroy it there must be elected to power a political power that will administer the government from the standpoint that the traffic is a crime and not a business.
Among the things favored are election of United States senators by direct vote; presidential terms of six years, one term only; uniform marriage and divorce laws; extermination of poverty; equal suffrage; prohibition of labor; arbitration of international disputes; initiative and referendum; non-partisan tariff commission; elastic currency; separation of church and state; equitable graduated income and inheritance taxes.

HARD WORK FOR CROOKS TO EVADE EXTRADITION

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Washington, July 11.—Those who flee justice in the United States will hereafter find no place on the western hemisphere safe from extradition. By signing an extradition treaty with Honduras today the state department closed the last avenue of escape. The House today passed the Clayton contempt bill by a vote of 232 to 18. The measure provides for trial by jury for those accused of indirect contempt of a federal court. If the bill becomes a law it would have a direct bearing on such cases of contempt of court as those in which Samuel Gompers, Frank Morrison and John Mitchell of the American Federation of Labor now are involved.

Four complaints were lodged at one time against Brose. The penalty is from one to five years in the state prison at Waupun.

HOT FIGHT FOR SEAT OF SENATOR BAILEY APPROACHING CLIMAX

Democratic Voters of Texas to Decide
Question in State-Wide
Primary—Prohibition Issue
Injected.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Austin, Texas, July 11.—One of the hottest political battles the Lone State state has seen in years is rapidly approaching a climax. Two weeks from next Saturday the Democratic voters of Texas will engage in a state wide primary to determine, first, who is to succeed Joseph W. Bailey in the United States senate, and second, whether Governor Colquitt shall succeed himself or be retired from office. At the same time candidates will be named for lieutenant governor and all other important state officers, for judges of the supreme court and court of appeals, members of the legislature and county officers. But so far as the general public is concerned the interest is centered almost exclusively in the fight for the senatorship.
Immediately after Sen. Bailey announced his purpose to retire last winter the canvass for his seat began. The followers of William J. Bryan, who had long fought Mr. Bailey, set out to get the place. Congressman Morris Sheppard of the First district, admittedly one of the oldest members among the younger Democrats in the House, was chosen to lead. He started out in a belated fashion, but within a month his health gave way and retirement.
With the retirement of Sheppard the leadership of the radicals was taken up by Cone Johnson, who previously had been the center of several stormy campaigns, having for their object the unseating of Bailey. Johnson found, however, that the pace set by his rivals in covering the great distance involved in a stumping tour of the state was too hot, and after entering upon a round of speechmaking was compelled to go to a sanitarium at Fort Worth. In the middle of April he announced his retirement from the race.
The radical leaders were in a panic when the decision of Johnson was made known to them. But they were soon relieved when word came that they that Congressman Sheppard, after a month or more in a sanitarium, had recovered his strength and would re-enter the race. Since that time Mr. Sheppard has been actively in the fight.
Mr. Sheppard is for the initiative and referendum and the recall as part of the state's machinery of government. He also stands with Mr. Bryan in the demand that free raw material shall be part of the democratic tariff policy. The same policies are advocated by Congressman Choice B. Randall, also a candidate for Senator Bailey's seat, and who has declined to listen to the plea of the Sheppards to withdraw from the race and leave the field clear for Mr. Sheppard as the sole choice of the radicals.
The conservative banner is Col. J. F. Wolters of Houston, who is strongly fighting the so-called radical ideas put forward by the Bryanites. Col. Wolters is a born fighter and he has an acquaintance with Texas politics that makes him a formidable opponent. Besides attracting the moderate strong support from the sheepskin and cattlemen who are opposed to the free raw materials policy advocated by Sheppard and Randall.
Notwithstanding the fact, the state-wide prohibition question has no direct bearing upon the United States senatorship, this is one of the chief issues of the campaign. Prohibition was a man of the anti-prohibition campaign last year, and naturally has against him the prohibitionists. State-wide prohibition was defeated by only a little more than 6,000 votes at the election, at which men of all parties voted.
It is claimed by prohibition leaders a test of the strength of the Democrats alone on this question will show the "drys" in a good majority. The prohibitionists almost to a man are giving their support to Sheppard. Randall is an anti-prohibitionist, but though he did not take any active part in the fight on that question in Texas, it is the general opinion however, that anti-prohibition vote will be divided between Wolters and Randall, while of course Wolters will round to the benefit of Sheppard, as he is the only prohibitionist in the race.
The contest for the governorship is almost as bitter as the fight for the senatorship, though not so complicated. Governor Colquitt in his battle for a renomination has but one opponent, Judge W. F. Ramsey of the state supreme court. Judge Ramsey is a prohibitionist leader and is making a hard fight to secure the support of all of the advocates of prohibition in his fight for the nomination for governor.
The campaign for the senatorship and the state officers alike has been one of speechmaking and there is scarcely a city or town of any importance in the state that has not heard the leading candidates. From present indications the battle will be waged with unabated vigor up to the hour for the opening of the polls on primary day.

WILL ASK TO RAISE RATES UNLESS TAXES ARE LOWERED.

Manitowoc, Wis., July 11.—Protesting an increase of $30,000 in assessment for the coming year, the board of directors of the Manitowoc Gas Company threatens to appeal to the state railway tax commission for readjustment of the rates of service in retaliation. The company produced figures to show that in six years it has increased its rates one and one-half times and that the city now collects a toll of nine cents on every one thousand feet of gas made and sold by the company. The assessment calls for a higher valuation of the company of $150,000.00. The company only a few months ago voluntarily reduced its rates to one dollar per thousand.

LORIMER DEFENDED HIS RIGHT TO SEAT

Senator From Illinois Today Began
Speech Defending His Election
To The Senate.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Washington, July 11.—Senator Lorimer today began his speech defending his right to his seat. He followed Senator Reed of Missouri who had made a bitter attack upon him and his election in the Illinois legislature. "Mr. President," he said in measured tones. "This is no joke. This is a solemn and serious question. If the senate decides to follow the views of the minority of this investigating committee it will be a travesty on civilized jurisprudence, a mockery on justice. It will be a declaration that the sense has decided to follow the red flag, that it has become the advocate of anarchy, has adopted the doctrine of the recall as advocated by its arch champion."
Senator Lorimer departed from his manuscript for a moment to refer to Chicago newspapers. He declared certain of the newspaper owners and publishers there would be in prison if the public prosecutors had been active.

Rebel Leader is in Juarez Trying to

of Military Campaign.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Juarez, July 11.—In the same custom houses where President Taft met former President Diaz and where also a year ago, Francisco I. Madero established his triumphant rebel government, today sat general Pascual Orozco, Jr., weaving anew the torn threads of his unsuccessful military campaign against the federal government. "The rebel chief while admitting his defeat in an organized movement, made it plain that the guerilla warfare now being planned was calculated to harass the Mexican government severely, but contemplated neither friction nor alliance with any foreign government. Toward the U. S. he said he entertained no ill will. From nations said to be friendly to his cause he added that he wished no assistance. "This is a revolution by Mexicans for Mexicans," he explained with emphasis. "It is true that we have received offers of assistance from abroad, but we have rejected them."
He declared the Madero government had circulated false stories to injure the rebel cause.

Washington, July 11.—Great Britain's request that the enactment of the Panama canal administration will be held in abeyance until Mr. Innes, the British charge of affairs can present a note in behalf of his government, presents to congress and the state department an extraordinary situation. While the reasons for the request are not stated there is no doubt that the British government is concerned in the clause to grant free passage through the canal to American vessels in coast wise trade and that relating to the passage of rail cars and ships. The Canadian railways are deeply concerned in both and it is thought that some of the representation will be made in their behalf.

Enjoyed the Judge's Lunch. Aman, who appeared to be one of the unemployed, entered unobserved the chamber of one of the judges in the Four Courts, Dublin, Ireland, the other day, and helped himself to the lunch which had been prepared for the judge. While he was pouring out a cup of tea he was discovered by the attendant in charge, who had him removed and went to look for a policeman. In the meantime the man escaped.

NEARING COMPLETION OF MAIN ST. PAVING

Street From Prospect Avenue To Pease Court To Be Opened To Traffic Late Next Week. Completion of the brick paving on North Main Street is now in sight in spite of the peculiar difficulties of the undertaking, the unavoidable and frequent delays, and trouble in securing sufficient labor. By the latter part of the week the block between Prospect Avenue and Pease Court will be opened to travel, and brick laid to Fourth Avenue. The workers of the Chicago Milwaukee & St. Paul Railway have about half completed laying concrete under and between the ties of the track leading to the freight depot. Concrete is mixed at the north end of the station grounds and hauled to, where needed on a push cart. The men are doing a very thorough job, though progressing slowly, and there will be no danger of the pavement settling or being disturbed by trains passing over it. Five carloads of paving brick (40,000) were received this morning, and 20,000 were put down in the last two days.

OPEN BIDS TO LAY PAVEMENT IN ALLEY

Lowest Figure for Work Submitted by Gund & Graham—Acceptance of Proposals Postponed. Bids for paving with brick the alley extending west from North High street to the rear of the Y. M. C. A. building and north to Wall street to the rear of the Bannison & Lane bakery were opened by the Board of Public Works this afternoon. The firm of Gund & Graham, who have the contract for paving North Main street, submitted the lowest estimate for the work, $1,649.44. Their estimates in detail were: Excavation, 596 yards, $381.44; paving, 675 yards, $124.2; protection curbing, 131 yards, $26.20. The estimate of Ryan & Sons was $1,765.33; excavation, $375.45; paving, $1,370.25; curbing, $15.65. W. J. Brown's estimate was $1.56 per square yard for paving, and 12 cents per lineal yard for curbing, but no bid for excavation was included in his estimate. As Mayor Fathers was absent, acceptance of any of the bids offered was postponed.

GAVE ILLUSTRATED LECTURE ON ROME

Phillip Whitehead, Son of John M. Whitehead, Gave Interesting Talk at Congregational Church Last Night. Phillip Whitehead, son of John M. Whitehead of this city, gave a stereoscopic lecture in the parlors of the Congregational church last evening to the members of the Congregational church choir. The lecture was illustrated with some especially fine views of the Italian capital and proved of great interest. Mr. Whitehead is visiting his father here during the summer, having just returned from Rome, where he has been studying in the American Academy of Archaeology. He will return to Rome in the fall to resume his studies at the academy.

BUFFALO NICKELS MAY BE NEW MODEL FOR COINS

The executive order to change the design of the United States five cent piece probably will be issued by President Taft in a few weeks. J. W. Frazer, the New York artist who is working out the design, conferred today with Secretary MacVeagh and George E. Roberts, director of the mint, regarding the details of the new coin, which will be completed shortly for submission to the president for approval. The figure of a buffalo has been selected for the nickel's face to displace the Goddess of Liberty, because, it is explained, the buffalo is peculiarly an American animal. The thought of the buffalo suggests the Indian and for that reason an artistic head of a Red Man will adorn the reverse of the new piece of money.

NOW TAKING CENSUS OF SCHOOL CHILDREN

C. S. Burnham, Clerk of School Board Doing Work Which Will Continue Several Weeks.

C. S. Burnham, Clerk of the School Board, is now engaged in taking the annual school census to determine the amount of state aid the city is to receive. The work will require five or six weeks time, more than in previous years, as additional information is required, such as the birth-date of the child, and the number of days it attended school during the past year. In some instances Mr. Burnham has been obliged to visit homes two or three times to get the birth-dates of the children, and it would greatly facilitate the work if parents would have that information ready for him when he arrives.

It is important that the School Board obtains the co-operation of the parents in the taking of the census. Every name added to the roll means $2.06 in state aid, and a corresponding decrease in the amount which the city must pay towards the support of schools. Every citizen who is interested in the reduction of taxes in Janesville should see to it that no children are overlooked by the census takers. Difficulty has been experienced with some parents who held the mistaken idea that the taking of the names of their children meant that they would have to pay more taxes. The truth of the matter is that the more children registered the less the taxes will be.

BOARD OF REVIEW ENDS HEARINGS AND ADJOURNS.

Assessment Rolls Closed and Assessor Smith Footing up Totals—Little Work for Board.

After being in session for over a week the Board of Review has closed its hearings on the last assessment roll and taken its final adjournment. The assessment rolls have been closed and City Assessor Frank Smith is now engaged in footing up the totals. He will also copy the assessment rolls into the tax rolls. Sworn testimony, the only kind which the Board has a right to consider and take action upon, was presented by but two taxpayers who appealed from the assessment, they were M. C. Jeffris, who asked a reduction in the valuation of his residence from $20,000 to $15,000, and M. O. Mout, who asked to have a clerical error rectified.

The Board reduced the assessment of the Jeffris residence to $15,000.

JUDGE SALE IS NOT TO RESIGN OFFICE

Unauthorized Report to This Effect Published in Newspaper in County.

Reports that County Judge J. W. Sale, who for the past twenty-six years has occupied the probate bench of Rock county, would resign the judgeship next spring, were denied today by the judge at his office in the court house. "There is no truth to the report that I will resign," said Judge Sale, "although I have announced that I will not be a candidate for re-election at the primaries and election to be held next spring. My term does not expire until January, 1914, and unless something happens to prevent it, I intend to remain on the bench until my term expires. I have no intention of resigning my position."

Sickness in his family was the reason given for his reported resignation, but the judge emphatically denied that because of this he would give up his position. "It is true," he said, "that my wife is in poor health, and I think a change of climate would no doubt be a great benefit to her. In fact, we have considered moving to California to see if she would not benefit by the change. But I will not resign, and I do not know what gave rise to the report published."

EDGERTON

Edgerton, July 11.—The funeral of the late Julius Krueger, who was found dead in bed Wednesday morning at the farm home of his sister, Mrs. Herman Becker, in Janesville township, will be held Friday afternoon at two o'clock at the German Lutheran church, conducted by Rev. J. C. Spilman.

The deceased was a native of Germany, born November 18, 1868. At the age of seventeen he came with his mother, brothers and sisters to America, the family settling first in Newville, in Fulton township. Some twenty-two years ago he was united in marriage to Bertha Klein, who passed away four years ago. The cause of his death was consumption, a disease he has been afflicted with for many years. Besides the sons, Rhinold, at Grand Rapids, Wis., and Wilford of this place, he is survived by his aged mother, two brothers and four sisters, viz. Herman of Fulton township, and August of this city; also Mrs. Albert Rusch, Mrs. August Ties and Mrs. August Dallman of this city, and Mrs. Herman Becker of Janesville township.

The Woman's Suffrage automobile party was the attraction at Edgerton last night. The party arrived at eight o'clock and the speaking took place from the auto on Front street at the corner of the Tobacco Exchange bank. A large assembly of citizens were in waiting and to the credit of the three lady speakers much valuable information was obtained by the large assembly of people gathered. The speakers outlined the work of the association in a clear, able and comprehensive manner, opening the eyes of the fair-minded listeners as never before. The impression left behind of the outline of the aim of the association is certainly commendable and, elicits the thought of all good people.

SUFFRAGISTS FORM EVANSVILLE BRANCH

Two More Speakers Join Miss Grimm—Good Crowds Hear Addresses At Evansville And Edger-

ton. Yesterday was a very busy day for the Woman's Equality League. Miss Minnettee Baum of Fort Wayne, Indiana, and Miss Bertha Pratt King, of Champaign, Ohio, have joined Miss Grimm and are donating their services in the cause. Miss Grimm, Miss Baum, Miss M. Clark, and Miss Love-day made an early start on their Wednesday trip, headed for Evansville, where they were invited to lunch at the home of Dr. Evans, after which an informal meeting was held and a branch society of the Political Equality League was organized with a membership of twelve ladies.

Miss Adelaide Evans was elected chairman, Miss Alice Spencer, vice chairman, and Mrs. Lyman Johnston secretary.

The lecture was given in front of the Evansville bank building, where about two hundred and fifty people gathered, and manifested the deepest interest in the subject of woman's vote.

Summing up the question of Woman's being given the vote, it was shown clearly and convincingly, that prejudice alone is keeping the movement back in addition to the jolly speakers, Rev. Gabriell gave a very interesting talk.

He lived in Idaho a number of years, and said he could speak from experience upon the effects of woman's vote in that state, and although he and his wife sometimes voted differently, he was perfectly satisfied with the results, and believes thoroughly in the good results derived from the woman's vote.

In the evening Miss King was the chief speaker at Edgerton, Mr. Widde introducing the ladies to the three hundred and fifty people, assembled. The men here, as elsewhere, were in the majority.

Edgerton is a city of about three thousand population, and the Suffragists count on about one voter to every ten, which means they had about half of the voters there and all of them enthusiastic for the cause.

Ernest Will of Edgerton, Husband of Mrs. Pauline Will of This City, Tried in County Court Today.

Ernest Will of Edgerton was given a trial in the county court this afternoon before Judge J. W. Sale, to determine as to his sanity. Complaint against him was filed by his wife, Mrs. Pauline Will of this city. The man was for a time confined in the state asylum at Mendota, and later in the Rock County asylum. He was released from the latter place about two years and a half ago. He has been teaching in a German school in the northern part of the state, it is said.

SPORT SNAP SHOTS

by DAN MCCARTHY

There are two players in the National league who are hitting above .400. Crandall of New York, has a record of .417 and Zimmerman, of Chicago, an average of .416. Zimmerman has played in about four times as many games this season as Crandall, hence his record may be considered as the most remarkable.

An "All American interscholastic olympiad," with teams of athletes representing each of the several states, is under contemplation at Purdue university.

Major league scouts have their eyes on Pitcher Ed. Marks, of Bloomington, in the Three Eye league. Sickness kept him out of the game during much of May and June, but he is now again in form. Marks has lost only one game this season, and that through no fault of his own.

Tris Speaker, of Boston, is ahead of Ty Cobb, of Detroit, in batting average for this season. The former has a record of .388, the latter .371. Joe Jackson, of Cleveland, heads the list with an average of about .400.

Peoria has a distinction of graduating the first Three Eye league player of the season, selling Outfielder Robert Veatch to Indianapolis for a price said to be $2,500. Veatch was signed by Peoria three years ago as a pitcher, but was so strong with the stick that he was removed to the outfield in order that he might be in every game. His batting average this season has been .345.

Al Palzer refuses to meet Luther McCarthy at the present time, on the ground that the fight would not be financially worth while. There may be other reasons, which Palzer forgets to mention. At the present writing McCarthy looks like the prize pale bueed hope, and that probably has something to do with Al's decision.

The unsatisfactory ending of the recent fight between Ad Wolgast and Joe Rivers was really the best thing that could have happened to those young men. They will fight again soon, and this next battle will leave them both rich. It will draw the biggest fight crowd in the history of pugilism, coast fans believe.

"I have not and will not sign articles to meet either Langford or McVey in Australia," declared Jack Johnson recently. "I have beaten both these men before and a match with either would not be a drawing card." Jack intimated, however, that he would meet either of these men in America before next Labor Day, if he could get his price.

COULON IS LITTLE OLD MAN BECAUSE HE IS POSSESSOR OF MATURED BRAIN

Johnny Coulon.

Someone called Johnny Coulon the little old man of the ring. He is that. And nobody is likely to take his bantam honors away from him while he keeps that mature brain working regularly. There isn't much danger of his falling in this regard; Coulon is always serious and always conditioned for any fight he goes into.

Coulon's little of champion of the world has often been disputed, but the fact remains that he stands out prominently among the indigents and that no other sawed-off outside of Frankie Burns has given him a fight in two years.

CURIOUS BITS OF HISTORY

A GALAXY OF GREAT MEN.

BY A. W. MACY.

The courage of the men who signed the Declaration of Independence is well attested by the fact that they dared to affix their signatures to such a document when they knew that in doing so they risked their fortunes, their liberty and their lives. But they were also men of high average ability, as is proved by the fact that a large percentage of them afterward became eminent in various lines. All five of the signers from Massachusetts became noted characters: John Adams, John Hancock, Samuel Adams, Robert Treat Paine and Elbridge Gerry. Two of Connecticut's signers attained eminence: Roger Sherman and Oliver Wolcott. Of Pennsylvania's nine representatives three, Robert Morris, Benjamin Rush and Benjamin Franklin, were men of great note; and of Virginia's seven signers at least two hold honorable places in our national history, Thomas Jefferson and Richard Henry Lee.

Life of the Soil.
The soil may be said to be alive. It is a matrix supporting various groups of definite micro-organisms, and the investigations of the past few years indicate the possibility of determining by bacteriological diagnoses the crop-producing capacities of different soils. It has been shown by the action of nitrifying bacteria, especially in samples of soil, correlates fairly well with the productiveness of the same soils under field conditions. — Harper's Weekly.

GENEVIEVE WHEAT.

At Myers Theatre Thursday evening July 18. Genevieve Wheat, by reason of an exception voice, careful training and an experience and musicianship more than usual, has attained a prominent position among the leading contraltos of the country. During a six years' residence in New York and Pittsburgh she filled several important church positions and was a most successful concert and oratorio singer, being in constant demand throughout the East and Middle West. She has appeared as soloists with the Brooklyn Choral Society, Oberlin Musical Union, Musical Art Society of Pittsburgh, Mt. Vernon, New York Choral Society and many other prominent musical organizations, and made two festival tours with the Pittsburgh Orchestra and one with the Theodore Thomas Orchestra, meeting with flattering success. Miss Wheat has a voice of splendid range and quality and her clear enunciation adds much to the enjoyment of her singing.

THE TRUTH.

During the long pre-convention struggle in the republican ranks it has been hard to find a newspaper in Chicago that reported the situation in an unbiased statement. The light for the delegations from the various states, their seating by the national committee, and afterwards by the credential committee of the convention, has led to the so-called revolt of the Roosevelt element of the republican party and the talk of forming a new distinct organization.

During this contest the Record-Herald published the fairest of all reports and handled the matter in its editorial columns in a concise and impartial manner. In the following editorial it answers the request of a reader as to its real understanding of the situation as to the contested seats in a clear, concise manner, and it is worth reprinting that others who have been in doubt as to the legality of the convention may read.

The Record-Herald says: "Sincerely and frankly, then, the Record-Herald does not know whether there was fraud or delegate-stealing at the republican convention. It believes, and said at the time, that two California district delegates were improperly seated under a party unit rule that should have been set aside in obedience to California's new primary law. We do not believe in any unit rule, but under the new system of popular expressions of preference and morally pledged delegates the state law should be decisive. In the California case an issue of principle, law and morals was involved, and any intelligent observer could easily get at the merits of the contest.

"Not so in a single one of the other contests. How many of the delegates actually knew what the evidence was on either side in any of these contests? That many of the contests were trivial and baseless was conceded by the Roosevelt adherents on the national committee and on the credentials committee. Unanimous decisions were rendered in some cases. In several others Roosevelt or La Follette men voted with Taft men.

"Finally, of the 252 delegates contested only as some seventy delegates were the charge of fraud and stealing made responsibly and emphatically. It is still iterated and reiterated, but it is as unquiescently and vehemently denied by Taft supporters. President Butler of Columbia has explicitly denied it. Mr. Bryan saw 'bias,' but he did not charge fraud or conscious misconduct. A La Follette delegate has formally 'reported' to his chief that in his opinion there was absolutely no fraud, no conscious 'taking' of delegates. A pledged Roosevelt delegate from Massachusetts, Loyal L. Jenkins of Boston, who fulfilled every obligation he owed to his constituents, says in a signed statement:

"In the so-called contested cases, there was a chance for an honest difference of opinion. After carefully hearing the points in controversy, I concluded that no fraud or shadow of fraud could honestly be charged against anyone. Holding that belief

I contend that the nomination was properly and legally made."

"On the other hand, many Roosevelt men are convinced that there was fraud or willful stealing of delegates. How is an outsider who wishes to be fair and honest to decide whether there was fraud or not? The Record-Herald does not know, does not believe in calling reputable men thieves without evidence, and has, therefore, declined to express a positive opinion.

"It earnestly wishes that there were in existence a body of independent, high-minded, absolutely trustworthy men to whom the contests might be submitted. There is no such body; there was no such body at Chicago. The machinery there employed was not now. It has been used before. Contests had been decided before, and not always with universal satisfaction. In 1908 there were 217 contests, and the Roosevelt men decided only three against their own side. The contests were heard and decided, in 1908 as in 1912, by the agencies created for that purpose, and the convention upheld them under the usual parliamentary rules and precedents. If the methods and machinery are bad, they have been bad for decades. Why has no provision been made for an appeal from committees to some impartial and outside body? None, apparently, has been deemed necessary. Whom, then, are we to blame for the particular situation in 1912?"

CROP KILLING.

As is customary at this time of the year the "Crop Killers" have made their appearance. Right here in Rock county we are told by some farmers that everything is going to the howl while others, who know, state this will be a banner year for the farmer.

Notwithstanding the fact that the Texans think Providence could not have been kinder to their cotton and corn, and in spite of the very general favoring conditions which have contributed to the fortunes of spring wheat in the United States and Canada, the crop killing experts are on hand in the Northwest a week or more earlier than usual.

Optimism seems to attract them much as sugar attracts flies. They have begun gently to speak of rust and hot winds. Meanwhile rains of the most propitious kind have broken the dry spell, and as a result the people on the spot are again on the crest of expectation. There is nothing doing there for a while at least, so long as conservative people, whose financial interest lies in getting at the actual facts, see 225,000,000 bushels of wheat in three states or 64 per cent more than a year ago.

Down in Kansas the crop killers are now traversing the big corn growing counties in automobiles, urging their chauffeurs to speed up under the hot sun. The result is that they see nothing but grasshoppers. Elsewhere in the corn belt the advent of the cutworm has been hailed as a walking calamity. It is some consolation to know that these very districts report a distinctly favorable season. Many of the farmers are putting work on crops other than corn; the names of which are little known to the observer who passes hastily through that region. The corn belt is fortifying itself in various ways against any possible loss. But this policy is one more to the high price of corn than to any fear of crop failure from creeping things.

Cotton is taking its share of alarm. Here the army worm has set its cohorts in motion in such numbers that when they cross the railway track the trains are stalled on account of them. In fact, it never takes more than a few thousands of these insects to put a train of cars out of commission. The boll weevil scare will no doubt be sprung toward the end of the current month, as usual. But his road will not be an easy one, because the cotton plant is not large and he does not like the rays of the July and August sun. In short, the insect world has scarcely had an inning, although the season is about half over. Last winter there must have been a great killing of these pests. That is one of the reasons why scares of this class may be discounted on the spot. Nevertheless, it must needs be that they come. It is enough to know that neither the farmers nor the railroads are worrying about them.

EXPERT OPINION.

One is surprised to find the following true statement of affairs in the Heloit Daily News as to the Roosevelt factional fight in the republican party and haste is made to reprint it so all may read and ponder over the change that has come across the face of the "moon." "Colonel Roosevelt says the story that he will quit the presidential race is a 'preposterous and self-evident fake.' Sure, Colonel, we thought so all the time. Anybody who knows you at all knows you don't quit. And why should you, since you are one of those pestiferous gentlemen who never know when they're beaten."

If you have not contributed to the Boy Scout fund do so by handing your check to one of the commissioners. It is a great movement and one which should receive the support of every business man interested in the welfare of future citizens.

It is never too hot for a baseball game, so plan to attend the ones of the Commercial League, Saturday. They are snappy and well worth witnessing.

These are the days that Janesville enjoys the river. If more people knew of its beauty spots it would become a far more popular resort than it is.

The Bull Moose party will not be downed until the last bridge is burned so they can not hope to return to the republican fold.

ON THE SPUR OF THE MOMENT

By ROY K. MOULTON.

From the Hickeyville Clarion.
Mr. Thaddeus Parker, who is the most eminent bugologist of this locality, has invented a new engine for the annihilation of potato bugs. It is a sort of community plan which will save the individual from an immense amount of work. It is planned to have the hose company of that locality go about this summer with their hand engine and do all of the spraying that is needed. It is not thought that the five company would have to miss many fires and the influence upon the potato crop would be invaluable.

Mr. Emory Walpole, who is an eminent and highly respected snakeist and authority on reptilology, has had a pet blacksnake for several years, which he always carries with him in his buggy. The snake has been taught many useful tricks, but the most important one is to act as hitching strap when Mr. Walpole wishes to tie his horse. The snake glides out of the buggy, grasps the ring in his jaws and firmly wraps his tail around the hitching post, holding the horse securely until Mr. Walpole returns from his shopping tour among the village thirst garages.

Heart to Heart Talks.

By EDWIN A. NYE

THE SCAPEGOAT.

The other day I read a letter that almost made me cry.

The letter was from a young girl of about eleven years to a friend of mine, urging him to help save her family from going to pieces. For a year her father and mother had been quarreling, and now they had agreed the mother should apply for divorce. They supposed the secret had been well kept from the little daughter, but she had overheard much of the difficulty and the whole wretched agreement.

My friend was bold enough to inter-vene—in vain.

And I can still hear the piteous wail of that poor child as it was voiced to her tear stained letter.

Now, I do not say where a couple is childless and after long forbearance and patience it is found impossible to agree there never should be a divorce nor that on Scriptural grounds there may never be cause for separation.

But—
I do say, if there are children, the parents have no moral right—none whatever—to break up the family and blight the lives of those children.

The rights of the children are paramount. Always they must first be taken into consideration. However the parents may suffer, it is their foremost duty to keep the walls of the home together and give to the children the environment of the family.

Poor child!
How could her father and mother, however stung or angry at each other—how could they sit down together and deliberately agree to make their child miserable for life?

Compared with her welfare and happiness what were their strifes and jealousies? What their misunderstandings or discord compared with her future? What their sins and weakness compared with her rights as a child of the family?

Cruelly and without consulting her they piled upon the slender shoulders of their child all their sins and shame. Cowards!

What ought they to have done? Locked tight the doors of their skeleton closets, locked tight the doors of their lips, and suffered the pains of martyrdom!

But alas!
Always it is the child who is the scapegoat of the craven divorcees. Instead of protecting the child, who needs protection against itself, they withdraw the bulwark of the home and thrust out their tender flesh and blood.

Have these parents no fear of that curse of him who said, "Suffer little children to come unto me?" Will they put a millstone about their necks by "offending one of these" little ones?

Sway of the Police Magistrate.

In New York upward of 200,000 persons were arraigned before the police magistrates during the year 1910 and another 100,000 were brought into their courts by summons. Over this huge army of people, many of whom are entirely innocent of any offense, the magistrates exert an almost undisturbed sway, for their decisions are in nine cases out of ten absolutely final. In other words, they pass judgment upon the personal liberty and rights of more than 25,000 citizens every month of the year, and, save in a few instances, their decisions are accepted without appeal or review of any kind. No other tribunal in the land administers justice on so vast a scale or exerts anything even approaching so unbridled a power. It is at once a court of first and last resort, presided over by a cad, supreme arbiter of the facts and largely a law unto himself.—Century.

The recruiting station and commissary of this newly equipped multitude which will play its part in bettering conditions and pushing to the front in the business world is in the Dictionary Department, where the doors closed last night after having distributed hundreds of volumes to well-pleased persons.

"I don't know of any better plan than you could hit on to benefit the great bulk of the people." That is what one of the grateful recipients of one of the New Websterian 1912 Dictionaries, illustrated, which The Gazette is giving away for six coupons clipped from consecutive issues of the paper and a small expense bonus writes. He surely wrote more wisely than he realized, judging from the endless chain of coupon clippers which has spread throughout this part of the country as the result of the great offer.

This Dictionary is NOT published by the original publishers of Webster's Dictionary or by their successors.

The work of keeping up a supply to meet the dictionary demand is keeping those in charge of the distribution busy and as it seems that every dictionary sent out brings in more demands, there seems to be no end to the increasing drain upon the source of supply of wordy wisdom.

Where is it all going to end?

The Gazette does not know.

Seeds of wisdom are being sown over a wide territory and scattering the words that make a large vocabulary and better understanding, everywhere and anywhere.

Beware The Lure of the Special Price:

It's a common practice in many stores to "cut" the price on some standard article, the object being to attract the people with the bait, then sell them other goods at a profit.

It's all a part of the circus, like the flaring red and yellow billboards—the idea is to get you inside the tent. "What shall I do?" you ask; "Shall I ignore the reductions and thus lose the chance of saving money?"

Of course not; take all the bargains you can get, but watch out for the sting in the other goods.

We don't reduce prices to use the reduction as a fishhook on our customers. Our goods are profit and reduced only first marked at a fair when we can buy for less, when sizes are broken, when we are overstocked.

We believe that quality counts and next to that low price.

AGREEMENT OF LATE SIMON STRAUSS PREDATES HIS LAST WILL FILED WITH COURT.

AGREEMENT WAS MADE

Complicates Matters for the Executors, and Causes Suit Brought By Mrs. Wolfe.

That the late Simon Strauss, whose death occurred April 28, 1912, at his home in Orfordville, died possessed of an estate of from one hundred and twenty-five to one hundred and fifty thousand dollars is estimated from lists of the property given in the summons and complaint in the case of Mrs. Martha Wolfe of this city against T. E. Tollefsrud and Will R. Day, executors, and others, filed in the circuit court yesterday.

Besides personal property, household goods, real estate listed, but for which no value is given, and other items of property, Mr. Strauss held mortgages, notes, certificates of deposit, and real estate property valued at over ninety nine thousand dollars.

The plaintiff in the case, Mrs. Wolfe, a niece of the deceased, claims that prior to the year 1900 she was a resident of Germany, having resided there all of her life, and where all of her near relatives with the exception of Mr. Strauss, resided.

At the time Mr. Strauss had no near relatives, with the exception of his wife, who died in 1905, living with him, and he was then a man of advanced age and in ill health.

The plaintiff further alleges that during the latter part of the year 1898 and the fore part of the year 1900 Simon Strauss solicited her to leave her home in Germany and come and reside near him in Wisconsin, promising her if she would do so, he would make a will in her favor so that under this will she would receive the estate the same as though she were his sole heir at law.

An agreement was made, it is set forth in the complaint, and Mrs. Wolfe came to Wisconsin in the month of March, 1900, residing at first in Janesville or at Orfordville, according as Mr. Strauss directed her to do.

It is alleged that this agreement has been affirmed by Mr. Strauss by written declarations and by oral statements, and in proof a copy of a contract given to the plaintiff on March 6, 1911, is offered in the suit. This contract, it is claimed in the complaint, was later modified to include bequests of $5,000 to all to Jane W. Day, William Marshall, Pauline Werner and Anna Lillienfeld.

On June 9, 1910, a will was made according to the contract, and was deposited in the county court of Rock County, July 28, 1910. A copy of the will is given as another of the exhibits for the plaintiff's case.

Prior to his death, Mr. Strauss turned over to Mrs. Wolfe a large number of notes, mortgages, certificates of deposit and deeds to certain real estate, in all valued at $45,674.

At his death another will was found, dated December 1, 1911, naming several other beneficiaries besides those already mentioned, including the Orfordville lodge of Odd Fellows, T. E. Tollefsrud and Will R. Day were appointed executors of the estate and demanded possession of the notes, mortgages and other papers turned over to Mrs. Wolfe previous to Mr. Strauss' death.

The plaintiff petitions that the court order the specific performance of the contract which she alleges was made between herself and Mr. Strauss; that the will dated December 1, 1911 be declared void, and that the executors be made trustees of the estate to look after the property in her name.

In the second will dated December 1, 1911, which Mrs. Wolfe seeks to have set aside, Mrs. Wolfe receives a bequest of twenty thousand dollars outright, including all mortgages assigned to her, the amount included in the mortgages to be deducted from the twenty thousand, and the Orfordville hotel and livery barn.

To Mr. Strauss' sister, Pauline Werner of Bavaria, Germany, he left the sum of $5,000, and the residue of the estate was to be divided between Mrs. Wolfe and Pauline Werner after some small bequests, amounting to about ten thousand dollars, had been taken out. The second will was admitted to probate in the Rock county court on June 4, 1912.

WILL HOLD JOINT PICNIC AT YOST'S

Janesville Council, K. C. Will Appoint Committee Tonight to Confer With Beloit Committee Regarding Outing.

Carroll Council No. 586, Knights of Columbus will at the meeting of the council tonight, appoint a committee to confer with the committee from the Beloit council with regard to the annual joint picnic of the councils which will be held at Yost's park, Saturday, July 27. The Beloit committee consists of Lester John B. Clark, Edward Rinehart and William Garde. Heretofore the picnics have been held on the last Thursday in July, but a Saturday was chosen this year as being more convenient for the shop men. It is planned to make a big success of the affair and no pains will be spared toward accomplishing that purpose.

A band has been hired to enliven the gathering during the day and three launches have been secured and free rides will be in service until 9 p. m. At 2:30 p. m. a seven-inning ball game will be commenced by the teams representing the Beloit and Janesville councils. No professional ball players will be allowed to participate in this game.

Immediately following the ball game foot races for men, boys, ladies and girls will be held for which only cash prizes will be awarded.

The usual tug of war between the Beloit men and the Janesville men, and the Beloit ladies and the Janesville ladies will be run off. Prizes for winning teams will be a box of cigars for the men and a large box of candy for the winning ladies.

For the amusement of the young folks, ducks will be turned loose on the river and the first youngster to catch a duck will be declared the owner of his prize. A greased pole with a flag on the end will be extended over the water and prizes will be awarded to those able to bring the flag safely ashore by walking the pole.

At 4 p. m. an old fashioned association football game of two halves will be pulled off on the baseball field by teams representing the two councils. A dance will be held on the pavilion from 7:30 to 10 p. m.

More entertainment than this will be secured if possible and everything will be done that will tend to make this outing a success. The joint committee will meet at Yost park to consummate arrangements, the first of next week.

Titled Men Chased Indians. Many Oxford and Cambridge men in quest of the romantic enlisted in the Royal Northwest Mounted Police of Canada. Many dukes, earls and barons also look with pride to the days when they chased Indians and cattle thieves over the Canadian plains. These men for many years preserved the law and order in the wildest parts of Canada.

ATTACK REFERENDUM VOTE ON WATER WORKS PURCHASE

Racine Water Company Claims Question Was Improperly Submitted And Appeals To Commission.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.] Madison, Wis., July 11.—Because the referendum was upon the question, "Shall the city of Racine purchase its waterworks?" and made no reference to the plant of the Racine Water company, the property in question, that company contends that the issue was never properly submitted to a vote of the people. In arguing for a referendum on the railroad commission yesterday, Attorney Thomas Kearney of Racine said: "The question as printed on the ballots cannot be made to describe the property of the Racine Water company any more than a question relating to the condemnation of land belonging to a member of 'this commission' made to support the condemnation of lands of another."

Further objection to the jurisdiction of the railroad commission was made by Kearney on the ground that compensation for the property of the company never has been voted by the city.

Burr W. Jones of this city and City Attorney Burgess of Racine argued that the people of Racine fully understood the question was on the purchase of the existing waterworks plant and said it had carried by a vote of 2,526 for and only 466 against.

The commission took the matter under advisement and later will submit an opinion on the company's contention and a decision.

FIRE MARSHALS OF NORTH AMERICA HOLD MEETING.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.] Detroit, Mich., July 11.—Every phase of the important subject of fire prevention is to be discussed by the Fire Marshals' Association of North America, which began its annual meeting in this city today. The meeting will last over tomorrow and speakers and their subjects include the following: Alfred A. Lindback of Manitoba, on "The History of the Organization"; John W. Zuber of Ohio, "Inspections"; J. K. Young of North Carolina, "Prosecutions"; Joseph Button of Virginia, "The Criminal Match"; and C. A. Ellison of West Virginia, "The Prevention and Its Effect on the Cost of Fire Insurance."

MURDERER TO DELIVER SPEECH FROM GALLOWS.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.] Arkansas City, Ark., July 11.—Unless Governor Donaghey changes his mind at the eleventh hour and grants a commutation, W. S. Rhea, the young white planter whose case has attracted wide attention, will be hanged tomorrow in the Desha county jail. Rhea continues to maintain that he is not guilty of the crime of which he was convicted and says he will make a speech on the gallows declaring his innocence.

Rhea was convicted at Pine Bluff last October of murder in the first degree, it being charged that he led a mob of negroes who shot and killed Constable Vital Orchard on the night of May 13, 1911, while the officer had in custody Grant Sanders, a negro wanted for murder in Racine county, but who had been working on the plantation, managed by Rhea.

SALT LAKE CITY WILL ENTERTAIN THE N. E. A.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] Chicago, July 11.—Salt Lake City, Utah, was the only city mentioned for the 1913 convention of the N. E. A. when the board of directors met today to select the next meeting place. It was said that unless plans were changed that city would be chosen. Almost the entire program today was devoted to discussion of educational topics.

STORM SAVES STATE BIG SUM FOR FILLING HOLE.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] Madison, Wis., July 11.—The forces of nature are relieving the state expenses at Black River Falls. As the result of a flood nearly a year ago there is a large washout in the center of the city which the state intended to fill up last week. A heavy storm drove a large amount of dirt and sand into the hole and the state was saved fully $1,500 in one day.

MEMBERS OF DAIRY BOARD TESTIFY FOR GOVERNMENT.

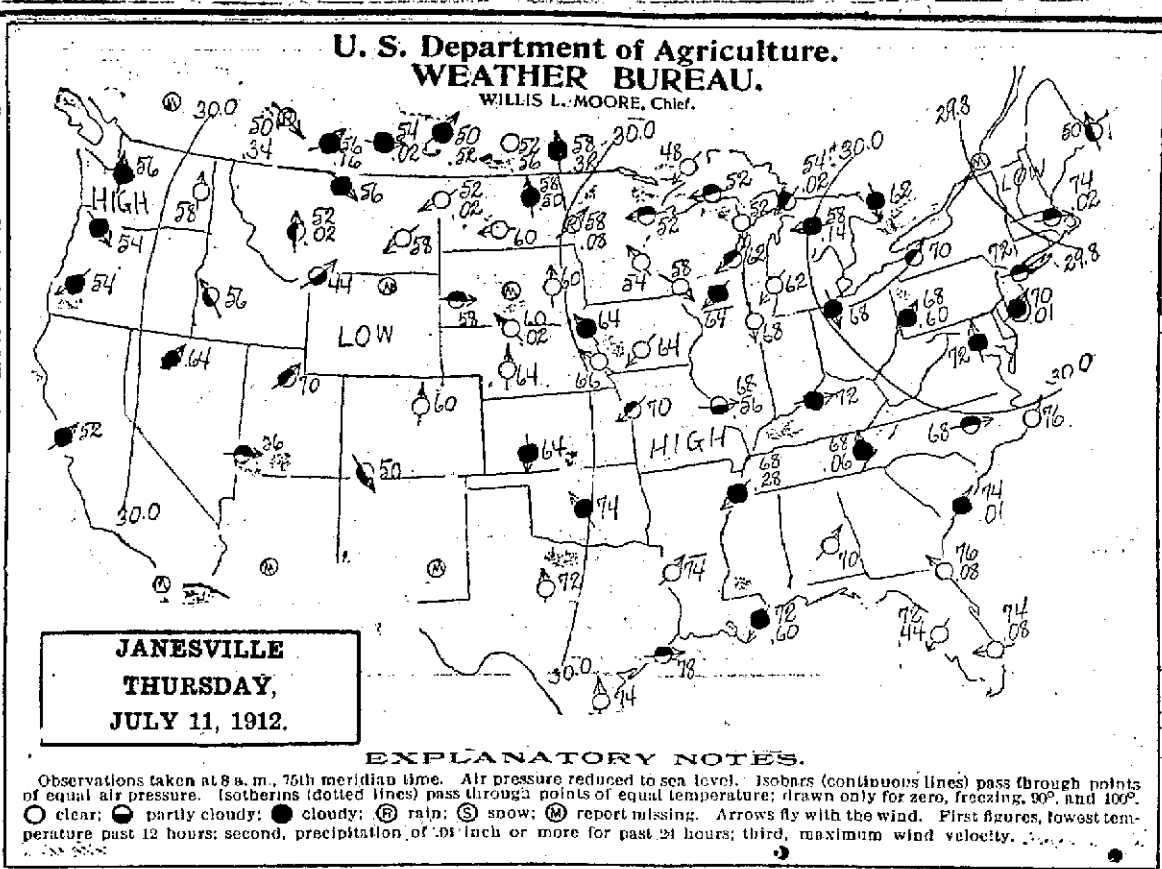

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] Chicago, July 11.—Nine members of the Chicago butter and egg board were summoned today to appear before Master in Chancery C. B. Moros July 15, to testify for the government in the injunction suit which is pending to restrain the organization from "fixing" prices on butter and eggs. The men subpoenaed are said to be among the largest buyers of butter and eggs on the board.

A CHICAGO MAN ENDS HIS LIFE WHILE MENTALLY WRONG

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] Chicago, July 11.—After probably fatally wounding his brother-in-law, who lay in bed asleep, Adolph Rosenberg shot and killed himself early today. Rosenberg's mind is believed to have been affected by the heat.

Wanamaker at 75th Milestone. Philadelphia, Pa., July 11.—John Wanamaker, America's foremost merchant, former Postmaster-General of the United States, entered upon his seventy-fifth year today. Mr. Wanamaker was born in Philadelphia and has been a life-long resident of this city, with the exception of a brief period of his youth when he was a clerk in a store in Indiana.

Foley Kidney Pills are healing, strengthening and tonic, and contain no harmful or habit forming drugs. N. J. Gorham, Cashier Bank of Woodville, Woodville, Ga., recently had an acute attack of kidney trouble. "The pains in my back and kidneys were terrible, but I bought a bottle of Foley Kidney Pills and took them, and can truthfully say they have entirely relieved me. I find more benefit from them than from any other kidney medicine I have ever taken." Try them. Refuse any substitute. Badger Drug Co.

The barometric depression in eastern Canada is moving over the Maritime Provinces toward the Atlantic. It has been attended by light rains in the eastern and southeastern states. Southerly winds still prevail along the Atlantic coast, with high temperatures.

The area of high atmospheric pressure following after the low area does not amount to much, and has already reached the Central states. It will probably soon flatten out, and the cool weather attending it will be of short duration.

An area of low atmospheric pressure is developing again in the Rocky Mountain region, and southerly winds, again prevail along the eastern front of the Rockies. These will extend over the central state during the next few days, with attendant rising temperature. There have been thunderstorms in North Dakota, and western Canada.

A Maryland assemblyman says the boys up his way begin to learn politics as soon as they leave the cradle. "By ten," he states, "a boy knows the game pretty well. For instance, one day in school the teacher was asking the pupils about South America. 'Explain the government of ten of the countries down there,' she said to one of the little fellows. 'They're republics,' he quickly replied. 'What are the other three?' 'Democrats.'"

Governor Eberhart of Minnesota, during an address, told the following story of his own experience:

"Once while traveling through my state I was noticing in particular the great amount of waste that was going on about me. During the afternoon I went into the dining car, which was crowded, so I sat down near one end of the car, opposite a fleshy lady, who I thought weighed at least 250 pounds.

As I looked past the lady through the car window, not noticing her particularly, I was impressed by the vast amount of farm machinery that was unsheltered and exposed to the weather and could not help but remark, 'What a waste!'

"The lady opposite me faced me squarely and said, 'Mister, you just mind your own business.'" felt something poking me in the side as we crept along. Turning quickly, I found the novice prodding me with the muzzle and fumbling with the hammers of his gun.

"Hi, Gus," he whispered, "before we get on to the birds you might just show me 'ow you let these 'ere triggers down!'"

President Hadley recalls that the day when he succeeded the learned and witty Timothy Dwight as president of Yale University the exercises attendant upon the transfer of authority were marred by a heavy fall of rain.

"Come down suddenly," said Dr. Hadley, "just as a column of people which President Dwight and I headed were crossing the campus. Some one handed us an umbrella which I was about to open when my companion took it from me."

"Let me carry it, professor," he whispered. "Your reign will begin tomorrow."

In these days of high cost of living, a medicine that gets a man up out of bed and able to work in a few days is a safe and valuable remedy. John Heath, Michigan Bar, Cal. says: "I had kidney and bladder trouble for nearly six years, and was confined to my bed, unable to turn without help. Soon after I commenced using Foley Kidney Pills and was relieved at once. His example is worth following. Foley Kidney Pills will do for others just as much as they have done for John Heath. Try them. Badger Drug Co."

How John Managed the Cook

SEEMS to me, Maggie cooks worse and worse," said John, looking at the overdone roast. "Why don't you speak to her?"

"You have to be careful how to speak to a cook," said Dolly. "Cooks are scarce articles."

"What's the use of having one, if she isn't any good? Do you suppose I would keep a stenographer who didn't know her business? These beans are all watery and the potatoes are hard as a rock."

"Suppose you speak to her," said Dolly sweetly. "Maybe she'll pay more attention to what you say."

"I will," said John. "If there was a little business management brought into the home, it would be a mighty good thing."

After dinner, John strode to the kitchen. Maggie was standing at the back kitchen door, her arms akimbo. She was disgusted with life. Everything had gone wrong that day. As she heard John enter, she turned, her expression and attitude belligerent.

"Um-er-what are you going to have for breakfast, Maggie?"

"Ham."

"Um-er-that's very good. Have it well done."

"Now what in the name of heaven did he come and tell me that for?" said Maggie to herself as John vanished. "Don't I know how to cook ham?"

"Did you speak to Maggie?" asked Dolly as John came into the living room.

"Yes, I did. I told her how I wanted the ham cooked for breakfast."

"You see," said John next morning, "I told her I wanted the ham well done, and it is well done."

"But ham is always well done."

"It's not just this matter of ham," replied John. "It's the principle of the thing. You want to let her know that the cooking must be done right. You have to be firm about it. You'll have no trouble, if you give her to understand you know what you want, and intend to have it. That's the only way to manage employees. Where would I be if I wasn't boss at the office? Why the place would be at sixes and sevens. They know that when I want a thing a certain way, it's got to be that way."

Then he went down town, and an hour later said mildly to his stenographer, "Just look up the spelling of 'correspondence', won't you? I am not sure whether it has one 'r' or two. I get kind of rusty on these things. But it doesn't look quite right the way you have it."

And Dolly was telling Maggie gently, that on some days things would go wrong, and that she mustn't mind the burnt roast of the day before, but to get up one of her perfectly scrumptious peach short-cakes for dinner.

"Nobody can beat you at them," she said. And Maggie fell to whipping eggs with vigor.

Heart and Home Problems

MRS. ELIZABETH THOMPSON

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am one of your steady readers and thought I would ask your advice in my case.

(1) I have been going with a young man, aged twenty-one, for ten months. Three months ago he went to a large city to work up a trade, but now has given up and come back home. Do you think he had another girl there? He has been in town a whole week now and hasn't come to see me or telephoned up since he has been home.

(2) Does every girl give a birthday present to a boy friend? If so, what is a nice present for a boy?

(3) Am I too young to go with fellows? I am nineteen.

(4) Is it proper to write a letter to a gentleman friend with lead pencil? What must the heading be—My dear John, Dear John, or Dearest John? (5) How can I win his love back?

WORRIED.

(1) He possibly became acquainted with girls in the city, and so long as he is not engaged to you he has a right to go with another girl if he wishes. He may not have come to see you because he is a little ashamed of having failed in the city. Then, too, he may have become tired of going with you.

(2) Yes, if he is an old friend. Silk handkerchief, tie, book, or anything that fits in with any particular hobby he may have. (3)—No. (4)

NERVOUSNESS FROM AUTO-INTOXICATION.

Neurasthenia or nervousness is claiming an increasing number of patients in sanitariums, and such cases are among the most difficult to treat, because of the difficulty of determining the individual peculiarities and causes. In many cases the essential cause is auto-intoxication and the most important part of the treatment consists in eliminating retained waste and restoring a normal condition of the nervous system by a simple diet. These are the cases often benefited by the milk diet, when it happens to suit the case, or by the exclusive meat diet if the conditions are more favorable for that. There is a progressive course of return to the normal in such cases and sudden changes in diet and other treatment often prove injurious.

CHERRY TIME.

This delicious fruit is not only used for food in the shape of soups, sauces, pickles and condiments, pies and cherry cakes, but they are manufactured into Kirschwasser and maraschino.

The fresh fruit, after being pitted, in an equal quantity of sugar is added and stirred until thoroughly dissolved, will, if canned and kept in a cool place, keep as well as if cooked, and one may have a fresh dish of cherries or a cherry pie in November.

A cherry pudding made of a cup of flour, a little salt and milk enough to make a thin batter, the flour sifted with two teaspoonsful of baking powder, is a simple and most satisfying dessert. Butter cups and put in a little of the batter, then a tablespoonful of pitted and sweetened cherries, another spoonful of batter. Steam in hot water for fifteen minutes and serve with cream and sugar.

Cherry Dumplings.—Take four cups of flour, two tablespoonsful of lard, two cups of sweet milk, one teaspoonful of soda and two of cream of tartar, a half teaspoonful of salt, a cupful of sugar and two of pitted cherries. Rub the fat into the flour and prepare as for biscuits, roll out and cut in squares; place as many of the sweetened cherries in each square as they will hold, pinch the edges together and lay the pinched edges downwards in a greased baking pan. Bake until brown and serve with whipped cream.

Cherry Olives.—Pit cherries and cover with vinegar and let stand overnight. In the morning drain off the vinegar and add sugar of equal weight of the cherries; stir until dissolved, keeping covered in a cool place, where they may be stirred frequently, then cover with a cloth and a plate, and in a few weeks they are ready to serve with the meat course. They are simply delicious. The vinegar may be made with the addition of sugar into a very good shrub.

The Evening Chit-Chat

BY RUTH CAMERON

WHY WE GET TIRED.

FEW women realize how disproportionately much weariness and exhaustion comes to them from doing some little thing which is beyond their normal strength.

A doctor was called in one day by a woman who found that she could not get through her day's work in a comparatively small house, and with a family of three, without being completely tired out at night. He surprised his patient by asking to see her kitchen. This room was a fairly compact place arranged with some regard to efficiency, and for awhile the doctor was puzzled.

Then they passed into the dining-room and his face lit up with comprehension. Between the two was a heavy swinging door. "That door ought to stay back, doctor," explained the woman, as she pushed wearily through it and it swung back, "but the catch won't work. I've been meaning to have it fixed for months."

"How many times a day do you suppose you go through that door?" asked the doctor.

"I couldn't tell you," answered his patient; "perhaps a hundred."

The door was an exceptionally heavy door, resisting to the extent of nearly fifty pounds pressure, according to the doctor's estimate. Every time the housewife passed through it she had to exert that much effort. It was evidently the last straw that broke the camel's back.

The doctor ordered a spring tonic, but he also prescribed much more emphatically a new catch for the offending door.

One over-exertion will tire anybody infinitely more than a dozen exertions. When you make a normal exertion you are simply using your muscles and hence strengthening them. When you over-exert yourself, you tear down and weaken your muscles.

You may carry a weight which your arms are easily capable of holding, some distance without tiring yourself; but if you attempt to lift a weight which your arm muscles cannot easily manage, and try to help yourself by using your stomach muscles, as we all do, you will exhaust yourself even if you only carry the weight a very little distance. The footpounds of work done in the first case may be greater than in the second, but the exhaustion is much less because the effort was normal.

The other day I found myself tired out at noon. It did not seem to me that I had done very much, and then I remembered a struggle with a window which was swollen from the damp weather and would not open. Again and again I had exerted my utmost strength—and more—to try to force the window down, and it was undoubtedly that over-exertion which left me worn out long before the day was over.

Every woman ought to beware of these over-exertions. She ought to be sure that there is nothing in her equipment such as a refractory door, or a heavy tea-kettle, or anything of that sort, which will over-tax her strength. And she had better suffer inconveniences, such as the window that would not open, rather than exhaust herself in trying to overcome them. Housework is none too easy at best. We certainly cannot afford to be extravagant with our strength in this way.

A WOMAN'S OBSERVATIONS

Edna K. Woolley

he'd be scared to death to sing it right out loud even on a lonely country road, for fear somebody would hear him and 'guy' him for it. The average American is so afraid of ridicule and what they say that he suppresses all his finest emotions, and only lets himself loose in a crowd."

"We've been horribly shocked in our neighborhood lately," remarked the tall girl in one of those big panamas with a black velvet ribbon adorning it.

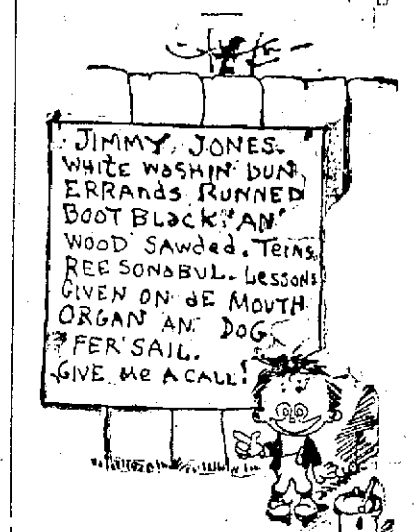

"Do tell us about it," begged the girl whose white shoes smelled of a recent cleaning with gasoline.

"We have some new neighbors, and they have two daughters and a son. And—well, you know how conventional our neighborhood is—one of those cut-and-dried residence streets where everybody must do just so or it's a horrible scandal. Why, mother doesn't dare go out on the back porch without her corset on! That's why we're going to move this fall—either into a ten-acre lot or a city flat, where we can do as we please."

"But about the new neighbors—the girls are about twelve and fifteen years old and not small for their age. And they go about most of the day dressed just like their brother—blue jean overalls and barefoot! The only difference between the girls and the boy is that the girls' hair is tied up with ribbons. And they're the happiest, healthiest family you ever saw in your life."

"But the neighborhood is holding communion meetings, and if the women get their way I expect the new family will be tarred and feathered. However, I'm with the new family, and if ever I can get courage enough I'm going to bloom out in that garb myself one of these days."

HOUSEHOLD TALKS

Polite society of Greece and Rome and the far East ate with their fingers, not from choice, we are told, but because forks were not invented until the sixteenth century and the only knife provided a guest was that which he carried in his belt for protection.

Omar Khayyam introduced meals at fresco and his loaf of bread and jug of wine beneath the bough, with pleasant company, must indeed have seemed like paradise when compared to early day methods of dining in companies.

The evolution of modern table appointments, and even the growth of tables and chairs from rude trellises and forms to their present beauty, is interesting to persons with a fair share of curiosity.

"Our dainty services of china had curious origins," says the Saturday Night. "The first plates were thick slices of bread, not delicate white bread as we have now but black, coarse stuff. The huge pieces of meat cut from the great joints were laid on these slices and they were used to mop up the gravies and juices from the meat. The bread was sometimes eaten too, thus the plate was devoured at dinner as well as the comestibles, but usually it was left for the servants and the poor that thronged the doors at meal times. When it was not convenient to have the bread plate the food was eaten from the board until finally wooden trenchers were made. These had to be cleaned once in a while and sand used in place of soap."

Shells were the first spoons and were peddled from house to house in inland towns; some genius tied a stick to a shell for a handle and so came the first rude idea of a spoon.

The meats were, as we have said, very large and when the dagger was insufficient a sword did duty for a carving knife. Forks were first heard of in the early part of the sixteenth century, when Henry of Burgundy went visiting to Venice and took with him a little fork with two tines to hold his meat while he cut it with his jeweled dagger. Young Henry was regarded as a sort of molly-coddle by most of the nobility but Disconcerted by Sneezes.

The world has now well-nigh forgotten M. Vivier, the once famous French-born player, who was so unnerved by the late Lord Houghton's blowing his nose at a critical moment of his performance that he threw up all his London engagements. "Ah," he would say after this, "the English have terrible noses. They remind you of the day of judgment."

RINGLINGS TO SHIFT HEADQUARTERS SOON

Will Move From Baraboo to The Old Libertyville Track It is Said Now.

According to newspaper dispatches Ringling Bros., who have placed Wisconsin on the circus map of the world, will move their headquarters from Baraboo to the old Libertyville track, just across the line in Illinois. The dispatch in question, which brings this tidings, is dated: Waukegan and will be of interest to all who have taken a state pride in Ringlings. Winter quarters for Ringling Bros. are established at Libertyville Ill. Waukegan, real estate men are said to be negotiating with representatives of the "circus trust" for the purchase of the Libertyville race track, which has been practically unused except for training purposes for several years. The negotiations are said to have reached a point where a definite offer is to be made and an announcement of the lead is expected this week. The track property is declared suited for the purposes of the Ringlings. It contains about 100 acres and has excellent railroad facilities, the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul and the Chicago and Milwaukee electric roads running within a short distance of it. In addition there is the advantage of its proximity to Chicago, which could be used as a purchasing headquarters.

Hansen Owns Property. The property is held at $25,000 and is now owned by Otto Hansen of Milwaukee. He came into the title as a part of the settlement of the financial difficulties of the Milwaukee electric company and its president, A. C. Frost. Recently F. E. Marsh, who owns big a farm near Libertyville obtained an option on the track. It is for him that the Waukegan brokers now are endeavoring to make the Ringlings see the price asked for the property.

For years the winter headquarters of the big circus have been at Baraboo, Wis., a fact that has been declared largely responsible for putting the town on the map. Much of its revenue has been derived from the circus men, but that it would lose their financial contributions was announced several months ago.

Taxed Heavily in Wisconsin. Ringlings, with several other big corporations, was heavily assessed under the new state income tax of Wisconsin, and like them it prepared to move as soon as new quarters could be found.

A location near Chicago was thought desirable, and it has been reported at different times that several sites for the winter camp had been inspected; but in no instance was there any suggestion that the brothers had found what they were seeking.

END OF JULY HEAT AND DROUTH IS NEAR

Foster Predicts Cool Wave From Thirteenth to Seventeenth—Hot Wave For Early August.

(Copyrighted 1912, by W. T. Foster.) Last bulletin gave forecasts of disturbance to cross continent July 11 to 15, warm wave 10 to 14, cool wave 13 to 17. This will bring an end to the July hot winds and drouth period. It does not mean that the drouth will be broken but when the cool wave comes in there will be no more hot winds during this month and therefore the evaporation and drouth will not be so severe. One more hot wave that will bring hot winds to some dry sections—during the first half of August—and then the crops will not probably not again be damaged by hot winds this season.

A hot wave about middle of September will be quite beneficial in maturing very late corn and late spring wheat. Some indication of frost in the spring wheat country not far from September 10. Then the warm wave following will make the late spring wheat crop.

Next disturbance will reach Pacific coast about July 15, cross Pacific slope by close of 16, and great central valleys 17 to 19, eastern sections 21.

Warm wave will cross Pacific slope about July 15, great central valleys 17, eastern sections 19. Cool wave will cross Pacific slope about July 18, great central valleys 20, eastern sections 22.

This disturbance will bring in showers and low temperatures. I would not be surprised to hear of light frosts in northern sections not far from July 20, although frosts seldom occur at that time of the summer crop season. No damage is expected by such frosts and only a little retardation from such excessively cool weather.

Another disturbance will reach Pacific coast about July 21, cross Pacific slope by close of 22, great central valleys 23 to 25, eastern sections 26. Warm wave will cross Pacific slope about July 21, great central valleys 23, eastern sections 25. Cool wave will cross Pacific slope about July 24, great central valleys 26, eastern sections 28.

This will be a duplicate of the preceding disturbance except that less rain is expected. Very cool weather will continue. This very cool weather is not the most favorable condition for growing corn. Electric storms are expected with this disturbance but they cannot now be located. An observatory recording these electric storms located near Washington is called Cheltenham. The oldest of such observatories on this continent is located near Montreal, Canada. These electric storms sometimes interfere with telegraphing.

Judge C. C. Blake of Richland, Kansas is now publishing a book form—about 400 pages—his system of long range weather forecasts. We should be pleased to know that Judge Blake has the generosity and the money that enables him to give to the world his forty years successful experience in this line. Of course there are no perfect weather forecasts but Judge Blake has made a success, not only in forecasting but financially. He has made a fortune out of his work. One item of his success is this. He successfully calculated the great and destructive drouth of 1901 and the great dealers and speculators in grain became very much interested in his work. He cleared $30,000 on that season's work. It is not time the government should open its eyes and ears to the serious facts relating to long range weather forecasting. Our congress is paying a million and a half dollars every year for an old, effete, corrupt, unsatisfactory system of weather forecasting and is also paying out vast sums for forecasting the tides. But the work of the tide forecasters is satisfactory because it is based on planetary influences. Why does not make one more advance and take up with planetary weather forecasting?

ALEXANDER HAMILTON.
By Howard L. Rann.

One hundred and eight years ago today Alexander Hamilton, one of the greatest minds this country has ever produced, fell in a duel at the hands of Aaron Burr. Burr, who was running for governor of New York, wanted Hamilton to alter a few conclusions of his candidacy on the editorial page of the Federalist, a strong standard publication, which stood for a high protective tariff and a central bank. Hamilton responded by informing his readers, in double-headed long primer, that if Burr would refrain from telling lies about him he would refrain from telling the truth about Burr. When Burr read Hamilton's remarks in the Federalist he became very indignant and promptly stopped his paper, thus starting a melancholy train of delinquent subscribers and making the newspaper profession more hazardous than crushing dynamite with a tangle hammer. He challenged Hamilton, and was taken up so quickly that it set his breath back several feet from the place of beginning. Hamilton did not want to kill anybody and refrained from shooting at Burr, which was a great mistake. Nobody would have missed Burr except his creditors, but the death of Hamilton made a hole in American statesmanship which has never been plugged up since. Hamilton never became very enthusiastic over the masses. He was the inventor of the pleasing axiom that this is a government of the people by a representative part of the people, which T. Roosevelt has been punning with so much enthusiasm of late. He also endeavored to reform the currency by locating all of it that was movable in one spot, where Wall Street could check against it without being interrupted by the country bankers. Nobody liked to discuss the money question with Hamilton, as he usually left them in a condition where they couldn't tell a silver certificate from a laundry slip. Despite his high-brow proclivities, Hamilton was a splendid type of early American character and integrity. He fought with Washington, lived cleanly and in the open, and what money stuck to his fingers was his own. His services to the young republic were never better appreciated than now.

The New Food Drink

Instant Postum

—a beverage with a flavor much like those mellow Javas which years ago came from the Dutch Plantations of the Southern Seas.

This new drink is said by many who have become acquainted with its delicate Java taste to be superior to much of the Brazil coffee marketed nowadays. But Instant Postum possesses additional merits.

It is made in the cup—requires no boiling, and is absolutely free from the coffee-drug, "caffeine."

Tins containing sufficient quantity for about 100 cups of Instant Postum are sold at 50 cts., by grocers. Smaller tins at 30 cts., make about 50 cups.

Coffee Averages About Double That Cost

If your grocer does not have Instant Postum, send him name and address and a 2-cent stamp to cover postage, and we will mail you a 5-cup sample tin.

This machine is a combined Hay Rake and Loader. It is so constructed that it will take the hay from the swath and deliver it on the wagon at any desired height without the use of a side delivery rake or other appliance of any kind. This is the tool you have stood in need of, for so long as it is the only loader that can be satisfactorily operated by one man.

How About That New Binder?

If you are thinking to buy one this year don't overlook the Deering New Ideal. In this machine you will find combined, most effectively, all that is best in modern binder construction. This machine is strongly, although lightly, constructed and will give the best service in all kinds of grain and fields. It is easy running, due to its generous equipment of ball and roller bearings and accurately constructed gears. The levers are placed close to the operator. The new elevator construction provides a simplified driving method, greater elevating capacity, floating elevators designed to handle large quantities of grain, and a new device for slackening the elevator canvases. The newly designed breast plate and compressor trip will greatly improve the effectiveness of the binding attachment. The reel drive has been improved and lastly there is that almost human mechanism—the Deering Knotter—never old but always new and leading all other knotting devices in efficiency. You will make no mistake when you put the Deering New Ideal Binder in your field.

Our Prices Will Convince You That You Should Give Us Your Trade.

Come in and let us show you what we can do for you in the line of Haying and Harvesting machinery.
